S&amp;P 500® Total Return Index (including reinvested dividends)	1-year monthly average	Cap = 11% Participation = 100% Floor = 0%	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Averaging and the value of reinvested dividends helps smooth index volatility.</li> <li>Averaging limits growth in a steadily increasing market.</li> </ul>
Fixed	Declared rate Current = 4.90% Guaranteed = 1%	N/A	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Offers an option not impacted by index performance.</li> <li>Has limited upside potential.</li> </ul>

Premiums may be allocated to any of the accounts. Each index-linked account will perform differently over short time horizons depending on market conditions, but they are designed to have relatively similar results over the long-term. Review the following pages to see how each account might have done over time.

Account comparison

The following hypothetical examples are for informational purposes only. Each one shows what the index-linked interest rate could have been based on historical index performance and current account modifiers. Index change percentages are based on index movements from Dec. 31 of one year to Dec. 31 of the next. Values assume 100% allocation to the specific index-linked account and $1,000 placed into the account at the start of each year with no charges deducted and no partial surrenders or loans taken.

Segment modifier assumptions: Cap rate = 8.5%, participation rate = 100%, floor rate = 0%

Past results should not be considered representative of expected future performance. Future performance of the S&P 500® Price Return Index and S&P 500® Total Return Index could be higher or lower than the performance shown in these charts. Principal Indexed Universal Life Flex II wasn't available until 2017, and the information in the charts applies a current cap rate, floor rate, and participation rate to past performance. Actual cap rates, floor rates, and participation rates might have been higher or lower than assumed and would have been impacted by market conditions and different policy guarantees.
