

Don't just take our word for it

See how others have benefited from protecting their income.

"I used my disability benefit payments for everyday living expenses. After all, savings only go so far when you have hospital bills coming in and the other expenses of raising a family."

– Kevin Hope, pharmacist

"I hadn't been in a hospital in many years. I was very healthy and thought 'why am I buying disability insurance? I'll never use it.' I found out that your life can change in two seconds."

– Gary Schaub, business owner

Individual Disability
Income insurance

Your income's important – protect it

Why protect your income?

Your income gives you the opportunity to do the things you love today, while also planning for tomorrow. Income protection, or disability insurance, provides monthly benefit payments — much like a “paycheck” — if you become too sick or hurt to work.

These benefits can be used to pay everyday living expenses, like your home, car and groceries. That way you can focus on taking care of yourself — not worrying about how to pay the bills or having to dip into savings.

It's more than just accidents

The most common reason people become disabled is because of illnesses, like cancer and strokes, not accidents.¹

It can fit your budget

Income protection can be more affordable than you think – costing just 1-3% of your annual income. That's about what most people pay for dinner out each month or their daily cup of premium coffee.
